SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1914.

VOTE THEM DOWN.

Vote against lengthening Alderman terms from 2 to 4 years.

This is the limit of rascality, but the rest of the "little ballot" this spring is the limit for cheeky graft.

In all thirteen propositions will be offered to Chicago voters. Bonds aggregating $8,700,000 will be asked for.

Of this amount the city seeks $4,700,000, while the county requests $4,000,000. The city's bond proposals are:

New police stations and sites $2,500,000

New fire stations and sites 1,000,000

Contingent hospitals, etc. 470,000

To pay city judgments, etc. 380,000

Bathing beaches 350,000

Other questions to be voted on include:

Ratification of amended Municipal court act adopted by the Legislature.

Lengthening of the terms of Aldermen from two to four years.

Annexation of the village of Morgan Park and of the town of Cicero.

Three public policy questions are to be submitted, two of which refer to the subway proposition. The other relates to the restoration of home rule in the public utilities act.

On the subway it is considered doubtful that the initial subway proposition will be submitted unless the Council passes an ordinance on the subject.

It is contained in the questions listed for submission to the voters, but may be withdrawn before the ballots are printed. The comprehensive subway idea, so called, does not require an ordinance under the wording of the form to be printed on the ballots to get an expression from the voters.

POOR OLD JOE MACKIN.

Will D. Eaton, editor of the Press Club Scoop and a veteran newspaper man who knew Joe Mackin well, writes as follows in the Scoop for March 7:

For many a year, ending not so very far back, Joseph C. Mackin was daily food for the newspapers of this town. He was a character, the only one of his kind—a politician, a philosopher, a money maker, and a picture to look at. He viewed the world from a platform of his own. He never saw anything, nor said anything, like anyone else; and he was a perennial fountain of interviews, never failing, always racy, sometimes bang in the middle of the big bell. He is dying of dementia in the county house. It is a dark end to a strange life.

He belonged to a generation that is passing out of mind, yet the men with whom in his prime he was constantly associated were conspicuous in shaping many of the conditions out of which emerged the Chicago we know now. He was by no means without his own influence in those conditions, but a difference of opinion with a state court led to his retirement from view for a few years, and after his reappearance he took up new pursuits in which his best gifts were not given proper play. How hard he found life then, nobody ever will know, for he never lost his quiet smile, nor ever complained. He was too much a man for self pity. He took his hurts in front, standing gallantly, in silence. It was a tragedy. What a man could endure, he endured—and when he fell, it was suddenly, at the end of his strength, not of his courage.

The newspaper boys of his time had no better friend, nor one more willing to help. He never worked them; and no confidences with them, either way, ever were broken. He was the first exalted ruler of Chicago Lodge No. 4, B. P. O. E., and that body will probably feel that his departure he made decently.

EAGLETS.

How nicely timed the Phone Trust packages are.

They are handed out just at the opportune time.

Owney Thompson's Utility Board ruled against allowing any new telephone companies to compete with the Trust in Illinois.

And now the outgoing Aldermen who have nothing more to lose and everything to gain have been heard from. The People of Chicago are to be sacrificed in cold blood.

Merging the automatic telephone system with the Chicago Telephone

CHARLES S. CUTTING.
Able Lawyer and Former Judge.

Company came a step nearer following the vote of the Council committee on gas, oil and electric light in favor of having a single telephone system. Negotiations between B. E. Sunny of the Chicago Telephone Company and the Illinois Tunnel Company, which owns the automatic system, have been in progress for some time, but were halted by the previous opposition of the Aldermen, due to a clause in the Tunnel Company's franchise forbidding its sale to a competitor.

Judge Edward Osgood Brown's grand record on the Circuit bench has won for him the highest esteem of the people of Cook County. His appointment to the Federal bench would be a popular one.

Bernard A. Eckhart was one of the very best officials that the state of Illinois ever had. Whether as West Park commissioner or as railroad and warehouse commissioner, his record is one of continuous hard work and splendid and useful service for the people.

Mayor Harrison transmitted to the Council his message urging the opening of municipal dance halls. It was sent to the finance committee for consideration in connection with the budget for 1915.

Jacob Lindheimer, who will be the next Alderman from the 3rd Ward, drove the loan sharks out of the City Hall when he was Assistant City Treasurer by allowing needy employees advances on their salaries.

Fred Griesheimer of 4329 Michigan avenue, a retired clothing merchant, has been appointed internal revenue inspector for Illinois by the secretary of the treasury. He was recommended by Governor Dunne and wholesale merchants of Chicago. The position is a new one created under the income tax law.

Deputy internal revenue collectors also appointed from the Chicago district are John Berger, Frank Caspers, Al Kirsch, and Richard O'Connor. William H. Moore was appointed field deputy for the Peoria district.

Arthur Josetti, one of the most popular men in the 22nd ward, is a non-partisan candidate for alderman in the 22nd this spring. Mr. Josetti served with great credit in the city council before. He is honest and able and his genial nature makes him many friends wherever he goes.

R. P. Bamrick should be elected to the city council in the Seventh ward.

Nicholas Flinn, whose record in the city council was beyond reproach and which was noted for its usefulness to the public, is talked of for a place on the bench next fall.

William Rufus Abbott, the great man who did not make many friends for the Chicago Telephone Company while he was General Commercial Superintendent of the Company, and who has been shunted to the "credits," is again before the public. W. Rufus is a director of the First State Industrial Wage Loan Society with an office at 25 North Dearborn street. W. Rufus ought to explain whether this is intended for telephone employees only or if the placards announcing the great thing were put up outside of the Telephone Building.

Chicago's youngest Aldermanic candidate this year will be Miss Elizabeth Johnson of 2250 West Twenty-second street, who has been selected by Prohibitionists in the Eleventh ward. She is not yet 21, but will be of age before the April election. Miss Johnson will assist in the circulation of her petition, for which 307 names will have to be obtained by March 13.

Matt Allen, than whom there is no more popular man in Chicago, is being talked of by North and West Side friends for County Clerk on the Democratic ticket.

Patrick F. Haynes, the popular former alderman from Lake View, is much talked of for sanitary trustee.

John Gowan-Stobo, the popular public accountant, has many friends who would like to see him in congress.

Tom Conley, the well-known merchant tailor of Tanner & Conley, is talked of for clerk of the criminal court.

The Chicago Historical Society will hold exercises in observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the introduction of the ordinance creating Lincoln Park, to be held in the society's building Saturday afternoon, March 14. Addresses will be made by the following: John M. Armstrong, who, as alderman of the Thirteenth ward, introduced the ordinance March 14, 1864, and Francis A. Eastman, postmaster of Chicago, 1869-1873. Mrs. Mary Ridpath Mann will give a lantern talk entitled "Chicago from 1803 to 1871."

Walter E. Schmidt's many friends are booming him for county treasurer.

How many so-called information bureaus are being run under assumed names in Chicago? Here is something worth getting information about.

How many deputy sheriffs are on your pay roll under assumed names, Mr. Zimmer?

County Judge John E. Owens deserves to be renominated and re-elected.

Ben M. Weldinger is making a hot fight for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Tenth district and will probably land it.

Republicans are talking of popular Phil Knopf for state treasurer this year.

Louis Biegler, the well-known manufacturer of fireproof windows, would run well for county commissioner.

Charles H. Lamson, the well-known paving expert, says that Chicago will soon be the best paved city in the world.

Zina R. Carter was one of the most popular presidents that the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Sanitary District ever had.

Alderman Edward F. Callerton, everybody is glad to hear, is rapidly recovering from his recent severe illness. Alderman Callerton has friends in all parts of the city who wish him many years of continued usefulness.

A. R. Porter, who has made an excellent record as clerk of the appellate court, will probably be renominated by both the Republicans and Progressives this year.

The Irish Choral Society of Chicago will present Handel's Messiah at Orchestra Hall, Palm Sunday afternoon, April 5th. Fifty members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will assist. The soloists are all of note, and there will be a chorus of two hundred voices. Prof. Daniel Protheroe, conductor and composer, will direct. The soloists will be Lucille Stevenson Tewksbury, soprano; Mildred Potter, contralto; Dan Beddoe, tenor, and Marion Green, bass.

The officers of the society are John A. McGarry, president; P. W. Hayes, and D. T. Harries, vice presidents; Patrick H. O'Donnell, treasurer, and Francis D. Hanna, secretary. The society was organized in 1902, and has for its object the cultivation and popularization of the best Celtic music. Prof. Protheroe will visit Ireland and Wales this summer, as the special envoy of the society directed to bring back to this country and to prepare for the society's use, copies of the manuscripts of the almost forgotten music of ancient Ireland and Wales.

John F. Clare would make an ideal judge of the Municipal Court. He is an able lawyer and no man stands higher at the bar. Born and raised in Chicago he takes a natural pride in the city and would bring to his judicial duties a ripe experience that would be of benefit to the public.

Ambrose A. Worsley should be elected to the Municipal Bench. He is a good lawyer and an honest man.

William Legner is gaining strength in the county treasurer's race.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

CROWN PRINCE STUDIES WAR PLANS

The exile of Dantzig, Crown Prince Frederick William, is back in Berlin, after two years at the head of his Death's Head hussars. He comes to Berlin to study war plans and administration under the guidance of the able soldiers of the general staff. He could not have come at a better time if he really desires to work and learn. Preparations for increasing the army under the terms of last year's armament bills are well under way, and the staff is loaded with work of a highly practical executive nature.

The crown prince will probably not stay at Berlin long. He will be instructed by past masters in strategy, the mobilization of troops, in all that can be taught from maps at a desk. Then he will be sent to some other regiment to take up again the practical work of soldiering. By inclination as well as training, young Frederick William appears to be a thorough soldier. He may find himself some day in a position where he will have to use his knowledge of the war game. There are many reasons to be apprehensive of this, although the horizon is now fairly clear. War clouds roll up quickly in Europe. In the formal phrase of democracy, Germany's relations with all other powers are "correct." That means that there is no immediate cause for apprehension that some neighboring country will make a sudden and unexpected descent on the fatherland's frontier.

But more cannot be said, for the neighboring European nations do not like Germany. Former Chancellor von Bulow, in reminiscences published only a short time ago, declared flatly that France has never forgiven Germany for the defeat of 1870-71 and the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine and that she never will.

RECEIVER OF THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Mr. Walker W. Vick of New Jersey, general receiver of the Dominican customs for Uncle Sam, has just rendered the sixth annual report of the receivership. A summary of the report shows that big business at the Dominican capital showed some trepidation when President Wilson brought about a change of administration of custom affairs in Santo Domingo. They feared the new broom might sweep too clean.

As the new receivership administration gradually unfolded its purpose, however, there was a natural subsidence of concern within business circles, and now the conclusion is in all realms of Dominican financial and commercial circles, that the right kind of sweeping has a salutary effect on the financial, as it does on the domestic household, and that cobwebs of debatable precedents are not always conducive to forceful achievement. When what is known as the "American-Dominican convention of 1907" was created, the United States accepted the responsibility of receiving all the customs duties; to pay a definite proportion of the same each month to the Republic, and to apply all else in payment of interest on a $20,000,000 bonded debt and into a sinking fund for the discharge of the principal.

The receiver general is required to make monthly reports of every penny collected, the cost of administration, and the disposition of every dollar received. At the end of each fiscal year these monthly reports are consolidated and published in the form of an annual report, and the whole field of Dominican financial and commercial growth is followed by the receivership plowshare, and exposed to the fruitifying sunlight of statistical accuracy and publicity.

During the six years of this Dominican receivership great progress has been made toward the repayment of the principal of the $20,000,000 loan, the customs receipts climbing from about $2,000,000 a year to an annual total customs receipts for the calendar year 1913 of over $4,000,000, or, to be exact, $4,290,000.

AWARDED RED CROSS GOLD MEDAL

A woman with white hair and with the spirit of perennial youthfulness and enthusiasm shining from her face has been awarded the Red Cross gold medal of merit by the central board of that organization. The woman thus honored is Miss Jane A. Delano. President Wilson made the award of the medal. In presenting Miss Delano to the president, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, the active head of the American Red Cross society, said of her:

"It is due to Miss Delano's devoted and efficient labors that a splendid corps of over 4,000 of the best trained nurses in the country have been enrolled in the Red Cross for active service in time of war or disaster. The people of the United States may well be grateful for the unremunerated and efficient work of this devoted woman."

The practicability of the remarkable organization effected by Miss Delano, whose official title is chairman of the national committee on Red Cross nursing service, has many times been tested. Last spring, for instance, during the Ohio flood, Miss Delano and her coworkers were able to mobilize within a few hours' time an efficient corps of trained nurses to assist in the relief work, and the Red Cross can at all times secure through its 110 local committees on nursing service the number of nurses required in disaster or war.

The entire corps of Red Cross nurses represents a high professional standard, and has been made a nursing reserve for the army and navy.

OFFERED POST AT PRINCETON

Alfred Noyes, the English poet, who is in this country lecturing in the cause of world peace, has been asked to join the faculty of Princeton university, and it is understood that he has agreed to accept. His election, it is said, will be sanctioned by the trustees at their meeting in April.

The position which Mr. Noyes is to fill, it is said, is a visiting professorship, with lectures on modern English literature. It will begin about the middle of next February and extend through the second term of the university, and it is understood, will continue in this way for several years from February to June.

Mr. Noyes is thirty-three years old, and has been writing poetry for more than 20 years. At the age of fourteen, he wrote his first epic, a production in rhymed verse of several thousand lines, describing allegorically the voyage through life as on a ship. This poem was not published. Five years later "The Symbolist" was printed in the weekly supplement of the London Times. At that time he was in Exeter college, Oxford, achieving a reputation far more through his prowess as an athlete, and especially on the class crew, than as a poet.
